It was in the halls of Silsbee High School within the Silsbee Independent School District where Wanda made her indelible mark. She not only taught Biology but also passionately led as the Science Department Chair, inspiring countless students with her dedication and knowledge. Wanda retired in 2005 after continuing her teaching journey at Dobie Middle School in the Austin Independent School District, leaving behind a legacy of inspired learners and wonderful colleagues.

Wanda and Terry James Taylor exchanged vows on December 3, 1966, and spent the majority of their married life in Beaumont, Texas. In May of 2000, Wanda relocated to the Austin metro area. There, she found a spiritual home at Mount Zion Baptist Church, where she became a devoted member until her

A key pillar of Wanda's life was her unwavering faith, anchored in her favorite scripture, Psalms 27: "The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?" These words reflect the profound faith and resilience that were the hallmarks of her life.

“ Heartfelt condolences and prayers to the Wanda Taylor Family, may you find comfort in knowing that we love you all and we are continuously lifting you in prayer. God made a rose and that rose touched so many lives and made it a butch of roses that is still down here on earth. Thank you family for allowing that rose (Mother Wanda) to make a impact on my life. RIP
